Reflection Questions

1. Did your estimations reflect the actual effort?

Yes, the story point estimates were reasonably close to the actual effort during the sprint. Some tasks took more or less effort than expected, but overall the estimates were useful for planning.

2. Was your backlog well-prioritized?

Yes, the backlog was prioritized based on the importance of each feature to the group travel expense system. Higher-priority stories related to important expense and settlement functions were handled first.

3. How did your simulated sprint align with your plan?

The simulated sprint generally followed the planned order of work. The stories were moved from To Do to In Progress and then to Done, allowing the planned sprint work to be completed.

4. What insights did the burndown chart give about your team's capacity?

The burndown chart showed how quickly the team completed the planned story points during the sprint. It helped us understand our progress and showed whether the team was on track to finish the planned work.
